Dr Chapin's Address at the Funeral of Horace Greeley

After the close of the brief remarks of Rev Henry Ward Beecher at the funeral of Horace Greeley, a synopsis of which has been heretofore given, Dr Chapin spoke as follows

One month ago many who are now present met at this place to express sympathy with one who had with pallid face and quivering lips a heart stricken mourner over his wife To day, as in the freshness of his quiet sorrow he himself is to lie by her side The shadow through which he was then passing has enveloped him Such is Providence, that checks all human associations and makes life a continual surprise I cannot attempt here and now to unfold the life or estimate the worth of Greeley Such an attempt would on the one hand be premature and on the other unnecessary Premature, because the traits and lessons of a great life can best be reviewed when the grief and excitement have ceased This work will be done I trust will be done in some public memorial service which will command and receive a much wider hearing than I can give To speak of Horace Greeley's worth is unnecessary It has already been done There have been but few instances in our history where expression of regret and regard have been so spontaneous so universal, so similar to these that pour in so fast from every part of the land They are not made up of artificial rhetoric, they are genuine tears Tears are as freely shed to day by the country friends and in distant cities as beneath the shadowing drapery of this house, from which he is so soon to go out forever They represent invisible sympathy, but they represent the people's thoughts, and more, they are twined about the people's heart bearing witness to the career of an honest purpose And why this reverential regard for the memory of Greeley? It is not for his mere intellectual ability, large and undeniable as it was It is not because he was a high official, for Horace Greeley held no official station The will of the people expressed through the Electoral College to day, decides that he should hold no such station To day the will of God elects him to a place from which all human places look small and dim Why is it then? It is the magnetism of simple goodness Greeley's heart was as large as his brain His love for humanity was inherent He touched all sides of humanity, so to speak The hundreds of poor, toil worn men who yesterday pressed through the crowd to take a last look at that worn face were moved by no mere curiosity They came there not to gaze upon the face of the great journalist or politician, but because he had always been the poor man's friend, the sympathetic companion of working men who had struggled through their experience and never forgot their claims All his public acts were directed by the same impulses and it pointed him in the service of very many causes Not only did it inspire his life long war with oppression, vice and wickedness of every kind, but it made him unspeakably generous Perhaps he erred on the side of mercy against justice, but if a man must err at all that is the good side to err on Whatever may have been the mistakes of him who lies dead before us, there is no mistake in the main current of principle which characterized his life, and therein is a lesson for us also How faithfully he did his work and led his life it is superfluous for me to say. It was an eminently practical one What various interests of art, of labor, of education, of temperance, of domestic economy, of freedom, go mourning for him to day! Wielding the mighty power of the mightiest engine of modern times, placed in the editorial chair as he was, it is no light thing to say that, however strongly (some may think severely), he used his pen as the instrument of his thoughts and principles, he never debased it as a stimulus to impurity, or made it the vehicle of a single social wrong While Horace Greeley had many antagonists, he had few if any enemies, and may I not without violating any proprieties of this occasion, express my satisfaction that, while political differences lay sealed within these tides, the highest representation of the nation to day bows its head in his honor—the thinker, the worker, the patriot, and the man

A Fair Proposition

Before proceeding with his lecture at Boston on the evening of November 18th, Mr Froude said

I feel it my duty, in view of the manner in which my lectures have been received in this country, to say a word to you who honor me with your presence at my lectures in defence of myself and my books, which I am pleased to learn have had a somewhat extensive sale in this country I am accused of bad faith in my treatment of historical documents and it has been charged against me that I am not to be trusted, and that I am a dishonorable man It is impossible for me to reply in detail to the charges of inaccuracy which have been made against me, and I have therefore determined to answer my assailants in the following manner It is a challenge exactly similar to that sent by me to The Saturday Review some time since, in answer to some criticisms which had been made against me Let my accusers select any given number of pages from any of my historical works one, two, three, or four hundred pages, as they may please, and submit them to the Keeper of the Records in England, with whom all historical documents are deposited Let them then appoint a commission to examine and compare my works with those documents, and, in case their charges can be made good I forever after to hold my peace and accept the dishonored position to which they would now consign me If they do not make good their charges, they to make me a public apology, retracting what they have said against me the expenses of this commission to be borne by me As a writer who has done his best to tell the truth, I think it simple justice that this challenge should settle the question of the accuracy of my writings

Burning of the Missouri

WASHINGTON, Dec 7—The Treasury Department has received the official report of the Court of Inquiry held at Nassau, charged with the burning of the steamer Missouri The evidence is very voluminous consisting of the testimony of most of the crew and officers saved The court finds that the vessel was hurriedly put to sea, and although fitted with new boilers and newly repaired machinery, she had no trial trip for the purpose of testing them that the felting for the boilers was found other wanting or defective on the day appointed for the sailing, and as there can be little doubt that the fire originated from the heating of the boiler, it can scarcely be questioned that the work of felting was imperfectly executed that the Missouri was not provided with a sufficient number of boats and such boats as she had were so secured that they were difficult to be launched, that on the alarm of fire all was confusion, there was no discipline no organization nor combined effort to save life each man acted independently to save his own life and that no attempt was made to save the lives of the female passengers

A Washington special of November 26th says 'A postal convention has just been concluded between the United States and Newfoundland to take effect on and after December 1 1871 The rate of postage is reduced to six cents per half ounce and under; prepayment is compulsory The United States postage on newspapers is two cents each and on phamphlets, periodicals, and other printed matter and patterns or samples the rate is two cents for each two ounces. These amounts must be prepaid on matter sent to Newfoundland from the United States. The same rates as above, except on letters, are collected on all matter from Newfoundland when delivered in the United States, without regard to what may have been prepaid there Each country collects its own postage on all matter sent or received, and no accounts are kept between the two.

We learn from the Sentinel that the names of the members of the Boddy family who were killed by the Indians on Tule Lake were erroneously given in the news reports to the press There was only one person named William Boddy, the rest were William and Richard Cavagan, sons and Nicholas Schira, son in law of Mr Boddy. The family were from Australia, and were lately keeping boarding house along the line of the railroad between Oakland and Roseburg They moved to Tule Lake in September with a band of sheep, and were industrious and worthy people.

The Daily Oregonian.

TUESDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 10, 1872.

Two Ugly Muddles.

A truly malapropos state of affairs exists in Alabama and Louisiana. In each of these States, there are two bodies calling themselves Legislatures, and claiming to be the legal Legislative bodies of the two States respectively. In Alabama the "Conservative" members, which is the name by which the Democracy has been in the habit for some time of designating itself in that State, assembled at the Capital of the State on the day appointed by law for the Legislature to convene, and by swearing in some persons who had been defeated before the people, but who claimed their defeat to have been procured by fraudulent means, succeeded in getting a number equal to a lawful quorum in each branch of the Legislature. This assemblage then went through the form of organizing the Legislature of the State, and were recognized by the "Conservative" Governor, and presided over by the "Conservative" Lieutenant-Governor. The Republican members elect, in the meantime, not being able to obtain possession of the Capitol building, and claiming to have a quorum of the duly elected members of the Legislature, organized at the Court House in such manner as they could in the absence of the officers designated by the Constitution to preside over them, by the election of a President of the Senate and Speaker of the House. Having completed their organization, they appointed a committee to wait upon the Governor and advertise him of the fact that they were ready to proceed to business, and would be glad to receive any communication he had to make to them. The committee performed the duties assigned to them, and were informed in reply that the body they represented could not be recognized as the Legislature of the State of Alabama. The reasons assigned by the Governor for declining to recognize them were, first, that they were not presided over by the persons whom the Constitution designated as the proper presiding officers of the Legislature; and, secondly, that the Legislature of Alabama was supposed to meet in the Capitol of the State, unless some emergency made it impracticable to do so. He was not advised of the existence of any such emergency in the present case, and therefore he could not regard a body that did not meet in the Capitol as the Legislature of the State. The forcible seizure and exclusive possession of the Capitol by another and hostile body of men was not deemed a sufficient reason why the Legislature should not assemble there as usual. And the refusal of the constitutionally appointed officers to preside over the deliberations of the Legislature were not a sufficient reason for their choosing some other suitable persons from among themselves to perform that duty.

But the Court House Legislature, as it was called, went on and elected a United States Senator, and proceeded with such other business as came before it; and the other assemblage also met from day to day, and still assumed to be the Legislature. This was the status of matters in Alabama at the last accounts.

In Louisiana the matter is still worse. The precise condition of things, or rather the circumstances out of which this condition has arisen, it is difficult from the meagre reports in the dispatches to comprehend. Among the wrongs charged upon the Fusionists—that is the name of the opposition in Louisiana—it is alleged that the votes of over fourteen thousand colored voters were arbitrarily excluded, for no reason other than that Governor Warmoth, and his political retainers wished to get control of the Legislature, and could not do so upon a fair vote. As in the Alabama case, both parties have organized a Legislature and each claims to be the constitutional Legislature of Louisiana. The Federal Court has issued an order restraining the Warmothites from usurping the offices, but they seem inclined to give little heed to this order. They meet and adjourn as if no such proceedings had been taken.

What the results will be no one can yet tell; nor indeed, is it quite safe to say that either party is wholly in the right. The facts, however, evince a most deplorable condition of political morals in those States. One party or the other, if not both, are endeavoring to secure power by unconscientious and corrupt means. If this is a specimen of the manner in which public affairs are hereafter to be conducted in Alabama and Louisiana, the restoration of law and order therein is not yet completed, nor too far advanced to admit of interferance by the Government, for the protection of peaceable and well disposed citizens.

The discussion which took place on the 4th instant in the House of Representatives, on the bill to provide for the construction of ten steam sloops of war, showed that while there were considerable differences of opinion upon matters of detail, there was great unanimity as to the necessity of taking some action in the premises. Some amendments were proposed and supported by members, while others favored the passage of the bill without amendment. All who participated in the discussion at all, were, however, in favor of the bill in some form. Mr. Pratt, who opposed every amendment, said it was the intention of the Navy Department to divide the vessels into three classes—one class to comprise vessels from 1,000 to 1,800 tons, to carry twelve to fourteen guns; one class from 1,200 to 1,500 tons, to carry eight or nine guns, and the third class from 800 to 1,000 tons, to carry six or seven guns. An amendment was proposed incorporating into the bill provisions to encourage the building of merchant ships convertible into war steamers whenever necessary.

The famous Jumel estate now being litigated in the New York courts consists of 126 acres of the finest land on Worthington Heights in New York City, and a lot on Liberty street. The total value of the property is estimated at about $6,000,000. The trial is to be by a "struck jury" formed by the empannelling of forty-eight prominent citizens, from which list the counsel for the respective parties will strike names, alternately, till the number is reduced to the requisite number for a jury. This is said by the Tribune to be the first case in which this practice has been adopted in the State. The judge ordered the jury formed in this manner on account of the magnitude of the case.

Michigan cast 216,128 votes in the Presidential election, of which Grant received 135,244, Greeley, 76,776, O'Conor, 2,352, and Black, 1,256. Grant's majority over all the others was 54,100.

The total vote of Kansas this year was 103,600, being 12,000 more than the year previous. Kansas increases in population more rapidly than any other State in the Union.

The Modoc Uprising.

The Jacksonville Sentinel has an account of the difficulties with the Modoc Indians, which contains some particulars not heretofore published. We glean the following. The band of Indians of the Modoc tribe, having their headquarters on Tule Lake, have for two years past refused to go upon the reservation, and have been all this time a terror and a source of constant annoyance to the settlers in that vicinity. During the last summer, quite a large settlement of whites sprung up along the shores of the Lake, and the hostility of the Indians became so apparent, that the settlers petitioned Superintendent Odoneal to remove them to the reservation. He referred the matter to the Commissioner, who ordered their removal. The order of the Commissioner was peremptory, and Mr. Odoneal had no alternative but to enforce it, and when the Indian Chiefs refused to hear the Superintendent, he placed the order in the hands of the commanding officer at Fort Klamath, and the attempt to enforce it produced the difficulties which have cost quite a number of lives.

There is said to be ground for supposing the Indians to have been prompted to their course by the counsel of bad white men.

A Washington dispatch mentions that Mori, the Japanese Minister, has received the details of the new educational system adopted in Japan. It provides for the establishment of eight colleges, two hundred and fifty-six high schools, and over five thousand common schools, which all children over six years old are compelled to attend. This is a very remarkable movement considering the nation by which it is inaugurated. Japan a few years ago was the most exclusive nation on the face of the earth in its foreign policy and apparently the most fixed in its pagan conservatism. With the breaking down of the barriers of exclusiveness and the opening up of intercourse with the rest of the world came ideas of progress. The immense population of the Empire, and its vast wealth of commerce, offered so inviting a field for enterprise that there flocked to its shores large numbers of intelligent Western people, whose style of civilization seems to have taken a strong hold upon the Japanese Government, bringing it quickly not only into commercial relations, but into political sympathy, with the progressive genius of the Western nations.

The vote in the Electoral College of Tennessee was cast for Thos A. Hendricks, of Indiana for President, and B. Gratz Brown for Vice-president.

The vote of Arkansas was cast for Grant and Wilson. The Republican majority in that State was between three and four thousand.

The vote of Maryland was given to Hendricks and Brown.

The vote in the Georgia College stood. For President, B. Gratz Brown, 6, Horace Greeley, 3; Charles Jenkins of Georgia, 2. Vice-President, Brown, 5, A. H. Colquit of Georgia, 5; N. P. Banks, 1.

Fred. Douglass was chosen messenger to carry the vote of New York to Washington.

The Colleges of Indiana and Maryland passed resolutions of respect for Greeley and regret for his loss.

In accordance with previous announcement the Bulletin yesterday appeared as a morning paper. The establishment is now owned by a corporation under the name of the "Bulletin Printing and Publishing Company." The names of the persons interested are not published.

The paper is considerably reduced in size and improved in the style of its "make up." In politics it is the same as heretofore, and no change is announced in other respects except as above indicated.

The company say they have embarked in the enterprise with the object of making a good journal "which shall be useful to the country and a source of profit to themselves." They have our cordial good wishes in their endeavors to accomplish this object.

The amount which the "bulls" realized out of the recent corner in the Northwestern stock, is variously estimated in New York, at from $5,000,000 to $8,000,000.

The N. Y. Times, commenting upon the operations, says the principle question it suggests, is one not simply of business, but of morality. The habits of thought that enable one to regard such transactions as less objectionable than other species of criminal overreaching in business matters, are totally inconsistent with correct moral principles. We endorse that sentiment.

A Boston correspondent says a stranger visiting that city would never be able to tell from the faces of the people, or from the general appearance of things, that a great calamity had just befallen it. The streets are lively, and the bustle and rush of business would seem to indicate the highest degree of prosperity.

Henry Porter Tenison, alleged to be a lineal descendant of the Archbishop of Canterbury, is in jail at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., on a charge of bigamy.

Grant carried Alabama by 10,831 majority.

THURLOW WEED AT THE COFFIN OF GREELEY.—A New York dispatch of December 3d, says.

One of the first men to approach the coffin was General Dix, and among the many distinguished gentlemen was Thurlow Weed. The old man sat near the head of the body and seemed pleased to be questioned concerning the life and character of the deceased. He said he could not remember that Greeley ever referred to any youthful amusement. They had been young men together, and were often in each other's company "Everybody," said Weed, "has hours of relaxation, but Greeley never played. I was as poor as he. I had the battle of life to fight as he had, yet I always took relaxation. Looking back over Greeley's life, I think he showed as much unselfish ambition as any man that ever lived. His whole life was given to opposing injustice and oppression. His character was perfectly pure. He had no vices that I knew of, and I was most intimate with him in all matters. He was fearless in the expression of his belief in what was right. His whole aim was to do good."

When Mr. Weed approached the casket, he leaned over the body and gazed long and earnestly into the face of his former associate, and seemed deeply afflicted by the scene. After looking at his features for some time, he leaned on the shoulder of a friend and left the room.

The Humboldt Times has an account of a sharp shock of earthquake which occurred at Eureka on the evening of the 19th of November. It says the shaking was of short duration, but very decided, agitating lamps and furniture considerably, and the people considerably more. The subject suggests some reflections to the Times, which consoles itself and its readers thus

The destruction of life and property by natural causes incident to the various inhabited localities of the earth are looked upon with tenfold more horror by those who read it in some far off country than by the inhabitants who are born with them. The fever and ague of Michigan has broken down thousands of strong athletic men, and laid them in premature graves, and yet the inhabitants of that State, so highly favored in every other respect, take it as a matter of course, and bear this sweeping calamity like philosophers, while a chill of horror creeps through their vein, when they read of the Indian atrocities of Arizona and the tremblings of the earth along the Pacific Coast. The facts are that both together do not number one-tenth the victims annually that are sacrificed by that malarious disease, besides the advantage of a quick death over that by slow torture.

The following is the text of Mr Sumner's resolution to obliterate the record of the war from the Army Register, of which mention was made in the dispatches of the 2d inst.

WHEREAS, National unity and good will among fellow citizens can be assured only through oblivion of past differences, and it is contrary to the usages of civilized nations to perpetuate the memory of civil war, therefore, be it enacted, That the names of battles with fellow citizens shall not be continued on the Army Register or on the regimental colors of the United States.

The New York Times thus remarks upon the election in the South:

Some of the advantages of the recent election to the Southern States are illustrated by what is happening in Tennessee. In that State seven of the ten Congressmen returned are Republicans, and the Democratic majority is reduced to about 8,000, while the majority in the Legislature is so small as to be worth but little to the party. The rule of the Bourbons is overthrown, and the people of the State already begin to agitate improvements in education and schemes for promoting immigration to the State. Not only is the future of the South settled by the election, but it is settled for good.

A Washington dispatch of Dec. 4th says:

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, ex-Commissioner Rollins and others, were before the Ways and Means Committee this morning, strongly urging the bill of the Commissioner for the abolition of the system of assessors of internal revenue, and imposing their duties on the collectors. The Secretary of the Treasury was also before the committee in behalf of the bill. The indications are that it is to be reported and passed.

CITY.

THE SAME OLD STORY —We observe by the dispatches that the girl, Lilon Shadden who was enticed into a den of infamy on Second street some weeks ago, debauched and subsequently induced to go to San Francisco has been decoyed by the wretch Parcel Smith by and through whose vile machinations she was unfortunately brought to grief It is but a reiteration of the old story so often told Smith induced the girl to accompany him to San Francisco and after possessing her by the means possessed by his victim wounding all the modesty and finer feelings of her sex and dragging her down to the lowest possible depth of shame and degradation, he deserted her without a dollar. In a condition of utter want and destitution, the wretched, abandoned girl applied to Chief Crowley for assistance That officer had her removed to the hospital where she will remain until to morrow, and then take passage on the steamer for this port, a free pass having been attained over the line And so the miserable creature comes back like a crushed and blighted flower to droop and die, or lead a life of living death, while the vile miscreant through whose plottings this girl was brought to ruin, is allowed to walk forth unwhipped of justice. In this affair the relatives of the girl are not wholly blameless, for once they had the wretch in the hands of the officers, but through unwillingness to prosecute him, he was allowed to go forth scot free But for this failure to discharge their plain duty, Smith might now be inside the walls of the Penitentiary It is true that his condign punishment would not restore the victim to her former purity, or reinstate her in the eyes of society and the world, but it would vindicate the laws of the land, and teach such licentious reprobates that crimes of such character cannot be committed with high handed impunity The moral effect would result beneficially to society.

SAILED —The steamship John L. Stephens sailed from this port for San Francisco last evening with the following passengers Ellis Clark, W P Nesbet, L Wolf, G W Tow, A Comstock, Mrs O L Stowbridge, Mrs Leroy and child, D E Spencer and Russell, R A Knapp, E Brooks, S J Henley E C Smith, Oscar Knatel, J M Hambleton C Billopp, Mrs Montgomery, Mrs R Irving, Miss Jessie Loftis, W A Atlee, A M Lorysen, H H Bigelow, W W Hanscomb, C A Hubbard, Col Hannegan, L V Castro U S A, Z W Burnham J R Jenkins, S P Bates, Mr Ashton and wife, T Shadwards and wife, W G Scarvis and wife, Mrs B Davidson, Miss Mary Holmes, S Feist, R W Moore, Ben Vobes, J A Martin, J C M Volkman, S N Hambleton, S D Seebold, J C Penn, J Foster, Jno Flannagan, A J Watson, J Grenan Mr D D Williams, Wells, Fargo & Co 's messenger and 49 in steerage

ADDITIONAL POWER —Next spring much additional machinery is expected to be attached to the lower mill below the city, and thus increase the capacity of turning out lumber in all stages of preparation for building purposes. The machinery is now driven by steam generated in three boilers, formerly used at Mill No 1, on the Island of railroad. A large new stack is being put up at one of the foundries, which will be used in connection with the boilers of the saw mill which stood at the foot of G street These three boilers have been put in the furnace, and will soon be ready for use This increases the number of boilers to six, and will doubly augment the total driving power of the mill

AT JOHN DAY RAPIDS —Mr J B Montgomery, the contractor, is engaged at that point on the Upper Columbia, with a large gang of men Under existing difficulties, the work is progressing as well as could be expected There are but few obstacles in the way of blasting and drilling the rock, but in consequence of the rapidity and power of the current which pours over the rugged channel, the work of grappling the shivered fragments is necessarily tedious and attended with difficulty

WORK SUSPENDED —On the new Custom House building proper, work has been suspended for the winter The exposed portions of the walls have been "housed" and protected from the delicate grating effects of the weather, and work on the extension of the structure deferred till spring However, a number of cutters will be kept employed in shaping the stone for their proper places until the resumption of the work

NOT ARRIVED —The hull of the new dredger is finished, and the boiler and engines are also completed. Delay is at present occasioned by the non-arrival of a portion of the machinery necessary to perfect the working condition of the craft This machinery was shipped some time ago—sufficiently long to have reached here ere this—but no tidings have been received of it since the shipment

WILL BE BEACHED —This morning the tug Ben Holladay took in tow the bark Melancthon and proceeded down the river The tug had on board two propellors, one at one of the foundries These propellors are larger than the ones now used by the tug, and will be attached as soon as the boat can be beached, which will be done at Linton to morrow

SUSPENDED —Navigation on the Upper Columbia has been suspended until next spring The steamer Onyhee made the last trip of the season last Saturday All the steamers will be tied up for the winter No freight per consequence, is received for points beyond the Dalles nor will be until the resumption of navigation

HARDLY DESERTED —The garrison at Vancouver nearly deserted since the exodus of the two companies which have been ordered to Southern Oregon to fight the Indians Scarcely a company remains, but additional troops to supply the vacancy is soon expected from other posts

RETURNED —Mr J T Robert, returned on Saturday from Cape Disappointment, where he had been for several weeks, superintending the construction of a new oil house Work on this building is progressing quite rapidly and will soon be completed

FITTED UP —The store room formerly occupied by Messrs. Baum Bros before the fire, is now being fitted up. The room will be plastered, new shelves and counters added, and the entire woodwork repainted Next spring the same firm will reopen their place of business

HOTEL DE WATKINS —Another boarder will be added to the list of "mine host" at the Penitentiary Sheriff Caywood took up this morning Josh Williams who has recently been convicted and sentenced for larceny in the Circuit Court, for two years

QUITE DESERTED —Since the Oregon City boats have been landing at the slip below the steamship company's dock, the old wharf presents a very deserted appearance No vessels land at the wharf, and no freight is received or discharged there

DELAYED BY FOG —The steamer Queen did not reach Vancouver yesterday morning until about 8.30, having been detained by fog For a similar reason the Fannie Troup was several hours behind schedule time in arriving here from Salmon.

INSPECTED —The hull and boiler of the steamer Fannie Patton was inspected at Oregon City last Saturday, by Inspectors Flanders and Logan Everything connected with the boat was found to be in good trim, and the certificate was renewed

FIRE —Early yesterday, the bark Melancthon came alongside the Gas Company's wharf and discharged several thousand feet of gas and water pipes for the Company, which are to be used in the extension of their mains through the city

SHEEP —The steamer Mary Bell took away yesterday morning one hundred head of sheep, the destination of which was Shoalwater Bay These sheep were in excellent condition and are probably intended to supply the market on the Sound

RECEIVING —The ship Undaunted Light is receiving wheat rapidly at Flanders' wharf She will be ready to proceed down the river by the last of the present week, should the grain continue to arrive.

TAKEN AWAY —The bark Melancthon was towed down the river yesterday afternoon by the Ben Holladay This bark will receive a cargo of lumber at St. Helens for San Francisco

POLICE COMMISSIONERS —The Police Commissioners will hold their regular weekly meeting this evening to transact such business as may come before them

TAKEN INTO CUSTODY —About the 15th of last month, a warrant was issued from the Circuit Court of Yamhill county, and sent to Sheriff Caywood of this county for the arrest of one Daniel Conway under indictment by the grand jury for the crime of assault with a dangerous weapon Sheriff Caywood kept the warrant some time but being unable to ascertain the whereabouts of Conway he handed the paper over to the Chief of Police Conway was soon identified and taken into custody by Lt Trulby Yesterday Chief Lappens telegraphed to the authorities at Lafayette and Deputy Sheriff Bolch or was dispatched to Portland He arrived last evening and departed this morning, taking Conway along with him

We acknowledge the pleasure of a call from Judge J I Wycho, of Washington Territory It is with regret we announce that the health of the Judge is very poor He has been suffering severely with a complication of diseases for some time A few days ago he left his home with the intention of visiting the genial regions of California hoping by a change of climate to ameliorate his condition When he reached Roseburg, he found his health as bad and his energies so prostrated that he abandoned the attempt to proceed overland, and returned to this city

Dr A M Loryea took his departure on the John L Stephens. This gentleman will proceed from San Francisco to New York, and from thence to Europe He will be absent several months and proposes to attend the World's Exposition, which will be held at Vienna in May before his return Numerous articles—all products of Oregon—have been taken away by him and will be placed on exhibition at the Exposition. Dr L also goes in the interest of a patent sewing machine needle, now attracting much attention East

IT IS DONE —Mrs Graham, widow of the colored man who was killed in one of our Courts of Justice about two years ago, writes us a letter from San Francisco inquiring if there is truth in the report that the man Ward who did the killing "has been pardoned, and is free" She is rather severe in her criticism of the Governor s action, but we suppose the matter had better rest where it is, as it cannot be mended now We must decline to publish her letter. Ward has been pardoned

DISCHARGED —The grand jury in the Circuit Court concluded its labors yesterday Five indictments were found against various parties. No final report was submitted to the Circuit Court, as none was deemed necessary. The jury were discharged

NOT GUILTY —The jury in the Circuit Court after a short deliberation yesterday, returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of the State vs John Gifty. The defendant had been indicted for creating and maintaining a nuisance within the city limits

U S DISTRICT COURT —This Court will convene this morning at the usual hour Several motions and demurrers will be decided, when it is quite probable that a venire for jurors will be issued by the court and placed in the hands of the Marshal.

ASTRO-THEOLOGICAL LECTURES. — Prof Chaney will give a course of lectures at Philharmonic Hall, commencing this evening They will be illustrated by a Planetarium, Revolving, Planisphere and fifteen oil paintings

APPLICATIONS —The Superintendent of Public Schools for this county desires us to state for the information of School Directors, that he has a number of applications from teachers of both sexes for winter schools

MONTHLY BAZAR —The ladies of Trinity Parish will hold their Monthly Bazar in the Sunday School room of Trinity Church on Wednesday evening next The public are cordially invited to attend

TO BE DECIDED —The opinion will be delivered in the United States District Court this morning on the demurrers to the indictment in the cases of the United States vs Gaveloff

STOCKING UP —Many of our merchants who deal in holiday goods are now in receipt of full stocks, and their show windows present a very fine and tempting array of beautiful goods.

MEETING —There will be a regular meeting of the Students' Law Association this evening at the usual place.

NEW SEWER.—A new sewer is being constructed near the foot of Jefferson street A much needed work

AMUSEMENTS.

A calico ball is proposed by the Portland Social Club, on the evening of the 31st inst

The Portland Turn Verein will give a social hop at Philharmonic Hall on the evening of the 26th inst

Mrs C F Stewart is announced to take a benefit this evening

Mr W C Crosbie will take a benefit at Oro Fino Theater on next Friday evening

An astro theological lecture will be delivered at Philharmonic Hall this evening by Prof W H Chaney

A benefit concert for Mr George A Buchanan will be given on Friday evening by the Last Portland Band, at Odd Fellows Hall in that city

Mrs Charles Corbell's Vaudeville Minstrel Troupe opened at the new Masonic Hall last evening The attendance was sparse Of the general performance, we can say that it is considerably above medium The jokes are all old and stale but are studiously shorn of any coarseness or obscenity The performance contains nothing either of word or action which is calculated to shock the sense of refinement

The singing of Mrs Corbell is really capital, that by Mrs May Leslie quite fair, the Ethiopian personalities by Messrs. Corbell and Foster much above the average, and the double clog and song by Raynor Carroll pretty good, but a little stiff and mechanical The performance offers no new feature outside of what the public are accustomed to see and hear in most of the traveling variety troupes Performance again

Rob Roy, a Scotch drama of a very thrilling character, was furnished at Oro Fino Theatre last night, and we have seldom seen an audience more deeply interested in the delineation of the various characters of this play There are some really fine passages in the piece, and they were well rendered, especially in the parts assumed by Messrs Waldron, as Rob Roy, and Fulford, as Rashleigh Obaldistone, and Mrs Stewart as Helen MacGregor A little more familiarity with their texts on part of some of the members of the troupe would materially add to the interest of the entertainment but this is a matter in regard to which the public have seldom any reason to find fault with Mr Waldron's company They usually are well versed in their several parts This evening Mrs Stewart, ranking as a first class actress will take her first benefit in our city, and we bespeak for her a first-class house She has contributed much to the entertainment of our people during the present season, and it is due to her that they show their appreciation of her meritorious efforts to please and interest them on this occasion We advise those desiring to attend this evening to examine the good bill which is offered, and secure seats early as a large audience is likely to be present.

PERSONAL.

Rev Dr. Marsh, President of the Pacific University, gave us a pleasant call last evening

Mr H H Bigelow, general agent of the Home Mutual Insurance Company, took his departure on the outgoing steamer for San Francisco. Mr Bigelow came to Portland to assist in the proper adjustment of the losses sustained by the recent fire at Oregon City, in conjunction with the agents of other companies likewise involved

Mr Charles E Smith, of the firm of Smith Bros of this city, who has the reputation of being one of the best mechanics on the coast, left on the steamer last evening to make an extended tour through the Eastern States and Europe During his absence he will be present at the Grand International Exposition at Vienna and will also visit many of the large mechanical establishments in the Old World and the United States for the purpose of noting the many late inventions and improvements made in the art of mechanics

Mr W A Atlee, the courteous and efficient ex agent of Wells, Fargo & Co, in this city, was among the passengers on the Stephens. Mr Atlee goes on business to San Francisco. We hope to chronicle his early return

LOCAL BREVITIES

The geese and turkeys are practicing at vocalization until the holidays

Christmas moveth apace.

The little folks are preparing stockings for the annual visit of Santa Claus

Deeper, deeper grows the mud on the back streets

The odor arising from the old decayed wharves of the city has not in the least abated

County and school taxes are coming in slowly

The new boiler for the steamer Annie Stewart is expected up on the next steamer

Put me in my little bed is now rendered thusly "Place this wearied piece of animated clay in the receptacle constructed by mechanical genius, wherein drowsy humanity may enjoy Dreadnature's sweet restorer"

The boys still run after the street cars as bad as ever

The Oriflamme will sail from San Francisco for this port to morrow

Street improvements in East Portland have been suspended for the winter

Last Portland luxuriated in one case of drunk and disorderly yesterday

The nights are rendered extremely dark by the fogs which prevail

The musical tones of the bull frogs are now an unwelcoming the tedious hours of the night

The markets are literally flooded with all kinds of game There is a decided preponderance of pheasants

And now have arrived the days of winter, water and Webfoot

BUSINESS NOTICES.

We dropped in at No 71, First street, and was surprised to see the place improved throughout Cases laden with Jewelry of every description met our eyes Messrs W T. Shanahan & Co have opened their new stock, which is elegant and beautiful. See their announcement

Don't miss the opportunity to examine the new matinee chains at B L Stone's Jewelry Store, 107 Front street. They are really elegant

As will be observed by reference to our advertising columns, the Metropolis Hotel is now being conducted by Mr D D Bunnell. His hotel is now conducted on the European plan—meals at all hours

We refer the ladies to Mrs Kingsbury's card

CRIMINAL NOTES.

A fine of $5 and costs was imposed by Judge Denny yesterday morning, in the case of State vs Mrs Dyck, charged with assaulting the person of Mrs Taylor The defendant paid the fine and was discharged.

Thirteen alias J Riley, the expert clothes thief was fined by Judge Denny yesterday morning $25 and costs, or go to jail for thirty days.

Geo Steiner, charged with grand larceny, was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday morning The case was postponed until 3 o'clock in the afternoon Meantime the grand jury had returned a true bill in his case in the Circuit Court, and the prisoner was handed over by the police authorities to the keeping of the Sheriff.

Why Endure What is Curable!

What can be cured must be endured says the proverb but indigestion can be cured and therefore it is the merest stupidity to endure it Dyspeptics have certainly a right to continue dyspeptics to the end of their days if they choose but none if it is not supposed that any rational being prefers physical infirmity to ease and health the proprietor of a complaint existed, they would with one accord refuse to use it We most emphatically declare that such a remedy does exist, and that its name is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters The record of its success extends over a period of more than twenty years and it is fearlessly said of it during the whole of that time it has never failed to afford permanent relief in any disorder or derangement of the stomach that was not organic in its character and incurable The testimonials that go to establish this important fact can be counted by the thousand but much confidence that it is to our aggravated by a total disregard of all dietary rules and is mollified and rendered chronic by medicinal treatment or drastic purgation have in hundreds of instances been cured with in three months by the systematic use of this celebrated vegetable alterative It should be remembered that weakness of the digestive organs involves many other ailments Biliousness, headache, spasms indigestion of the bowels nervous debility rush of blood to the head nausea vertigo and sleeplessness are among its concomitants and results and for all these the great vegetable tonic is a specific It acts first upon the stomach, and through the stomach upon the secretory and nervous systems and the bowels its general effect being always genial and beneficent

Legal Publications.

The Supreme Court of California has just decided a case involving several interesting questions in relation to the publication of legal notices. We take the decision from the Sacramento Union. The case referred to is that of Robertson vs Tobin. The opinion of the Court is as follows

The plaintiff sues for the recovery of an assessment for street work, performed under proceedings commenced under the act of April 1st, 1872, the fourth section of which provides that the resolution expressing the intention of the Board of Supervisors to cause the work to be done shall be published "for the period of ten days in the paper doing the printing under this law, and also in two daily newspapers, one of which newspapers shall be published as a morning edition, and one as an evening edition, printed and published in said city and county, for ten days, Sundays and non judicial days excepted." The same section further provides that "at the expiration of any notice of intention the Board of Supervisors shall be deemed to have acquired jurisdiction" to order the work to be done. By section 18 it is provided that in bringing an action to recover an assessment the complaint need not show any of the proceedings prior to the issuing of the assessment, diagram and certificate; but it shall be deemed sufficient if it shows the title of the court, the date of the issuing of the assessment, and of the recording thereof, the book and page where recorded, a general statement of the work done, a description of the, property sought to be charged, the amount assessed thereon, that the same remains unpaid, and with a proper prayer for relief. The complaint in this case pursues the form here indicated and contains all the averments which the statute requires, but does not set forth any of the proceedings prior to the issuing of the assessment, diagram and certificate. One of the defenses especially authorized by the statute is a "want of jurisdiction to order the work."

It is quite clear that, in order to acquire jurisdiction to order and proceed with the work, it is essential that the resolution that the Board of Supervisors intend to cause the work to be done shall be published as required by the statute. The only defense set up in the answer is "that the publication of the notice of intention was made in the following daily newspapers only, to-wit. The Daily Examiner, the San Francisco Chronicle and the Abend Post; that the publication in the Chronicle commenced on a Tuesday and was continued through the week and the subsequent week, with the exception that the same was not published on the intervening Monday; that the Abend Post is a German paper printed in the German language; that the resolution was printed for ten successive days, Sunday and non-judicial exception, therein, in the English language, and not in the German language." A demurrer was sustained to the answer, and the defendant declining to amend, a final judgment was entered for the plaintiff, from which the defendant appeals.

The defendant contends that the publication in the Chronicle was insufficient, because of omission to publish the resolution on the Monday which intervened between the first and last publication. But the answer admits that the Chronicle was a daily newspaper, and that the publication was made for ten days exclusive of the intervening Sunday or Monday. From the allegations of the answer it is to be inferred that, according to its usual course of business, the Chronicle was issued every day of the week except Monday. If this be so, it was a "daily" newspaper in the sense of the statute which employs the term "daily newspaper" in contradistinction to the term "weekly," "semi-weekly," or "tri-weekly" newspapers. The term was used and is to be understood in its usual popular sense; and in this sense it is clear that a paper which, according to its usual custom, is published every day of the week except one is a daily paper. Otherwise, a paper which is published every day except Sunday, would not be a daily paper. The term, in its popular sense, does not admit of this construction. We are, therefore, of opinion that the publication of the Chronicle was sufficient.

The only objection urged against the publication in the Abend Post is that the paper was printed and published in the German language, whilst the resolution was printed therein in the English language. The statute does not specify in what language the paper must be printed. Its only requirement is that it shall be a "daily newspaper;" and in view of the fact that our population is composed largely of persons of different nationalities, it may be that the Legislature intended to confer upon the Board of Supervisors the right to exercise its sound discretion in respect to the propriety of publishing the notice in a paper largely read by a considerable portion of our foreign population. But however this may be, we have no power to engraft upon the statute a new provision requiring the publication to be made in a newspaper printed in a particular language. The publication was, therefore, sufficient.

Barometric Anomalies.

At a recent meeting of the Academy of Sciences of San Francisco, some very remarkable facts were stated in connection with barometrical observations in the Great Basin and on the Pacific Coast. Dr. Blaké said:

In a paper read before the Academy a few weeks ago, on the height of the divide between the waters of the Great Basin and the Columbia, I made at Winnemucca, as compared with those of the Summit, gave a difference of level between the two points about 100 feet less than had been measured in the trigonometrical survey of the Central Pacific Railroad; and also that a few observations made at Verdi at the same time by Professor Davidson, had shown almost as great a difference between the height of that station as measured by the barometer or by direct leveling. In endeavoring to account for this discrepancy between the results of these two methods of measuring, I was led to ascertain the facts of the direction of the winds on the comparative height of the barometer at the two stations, and although I could find nothing in their directions to explain the anomaly above alluded to, yet my inquiries led to the discovery of an interesting fact, which, if it should be verified by farther investigation, forms a remarkable exception to the usual daily fluctuations of the barometer. As a usual thing, the barometer is subject to diurnal variations, so that there are two maxima, one at 9 A. M. and the other at 9 P. M. and two minima, at 3. P. M. and at four A. M. I find that during the prevalence of southerly winds my observations show the nominal diurnal as follows: At 7 A. M. 25.468; 2 P. M. 25.293; 9 P. M. 25.479; at the Summit for the same days: 7 A. M. 23.293; 2 P. M. 23.217; 9 P. M. 23.276. During the prevalence of northerly winds this regular diurnal rise and fall of the barometer is apparently reversed, the maximum occurring at 2 P. M., and the minimum at 7 A. M. and 9 P. M. During the time these observations were being made the weather was fine, there being no unusual atmospheric disturbance, the north and south winds alternatings they usually do in this part of the continent during the month of June. The observations extended eighteen days, ten days of north winds and eight days of south. These observations few as they are, evidently indicate certain anomalies in the movements of the barometer in this portion of the continent, which must render the instrument a very unsafe means for determining heights—a conclusion which Mr. Gardiner informs me has been fully verified by him during the survey on that portion of the 40th parallel which lies in the Great Basin.

Dr. Gibbons stated that the irregularities of the barometer were much greater on this coast than in the Eastern States or in Europe, and that "in this part of the continent the rise and fall of the barometer as indicating the character of the weather to follow seemed to be entirely unreliable." He also stated that the heavy rains which fell some ten days since at San Francisco were proceeded by a rapid rising of the barometer for four or five hours, the column remaining steady during the continuation of the storm.

A new-made husband says: "It isn't half so hard to get married as it is to get the furniture." Many others have found out the same thing.

The Wreck of the Bark Charles Ward.

On the 25th of November, the Cunard steamer Batavia arrived at Boston, bringing intelligence of the wreck of the British bark Charles Ward, in the hurricane of the 18th and 19th. Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain), who was a passenger on the Batavia, gives the subjoined account of the wreck and the rescue.

On Sunday night a strong west wind began to blow, and not long after midnight it increased to a gale. By 5 o'clock the sea was running very high. At 7 our starboard bulwarks were stove in, and the water entered the main saloon. At a later hour the gangway on the port side came in with a crash, and the sea followed, flooding many of the state rooms on that side. At the same time a sea crossed the roof of the vessel, and carried away one of our boats, splintering it to pieces, and taking one of the davits with it. At 9½ the glass was down to 28.75, and the gale was blowing with a severity which the officers say is not experienced oftener than once in five or ten years. The storm continued during the day and all night, and also all day yesterday, but with moderated violence. At 4 P. M. a dismasted vessel was sighted. A furious squall had just broken upon us, and the sea was running mountains high, to use the popular expression. Nevertheless, Capt. Moulard immediately bore up for the wreck, which was making signals of distress, ordered out a life boat, and called for volunteers. To a landsman it seemed like deliberate suicide to go out in such a storm, but our third and fourth officers and eight men answered to the call with a promptness that compelled a cheer. They carried a long line with them; several life buoys, and a lighted lantern, for the atmosphere was murky with the storm, and sunset was not far off. The wrecked bark was the Charles Ward, Capt. Bell, bound from Quebec to Scotland, with lumber. The vessel went over on her beam ends at 9 o'clock Monday morning, and eleven men were washed overboard and lost. Capt. Bell and eight men remained, and these our boat saved. They had been in the main rigging some thirty one hours, without food or water, and were so frozen and exhausted, that, when we got them on board, they could hardly speak, and the minds of several of them were wandering. The wreck was out of the ordinary track of vessels, and was 1,500 miles from land. She was in the center of the Atlantic Our life boat crew of volunteers consisted of the following: D Gillies, third officer; H. Kyle, fourth officer; Nicholas Foley, quartermaster; Henry Foley, quartermaster; Nathaniel Clark, quartermaster; Thomas Henry, seaman; John Park, seaman; Richard Brennan, seaman.

In the Sacramento Union's Washington dispatches, under date of Dec. 2d, we find the following.

Speaker Blaine called Cox, of New York, to the chair, and taking the floor, offered a preamble and resolution setting forth the charges which had been made in the public press, based upon an alleged letter by Oakes Ames and affidavit of H. S. McComb to the effect that certain members of the House received bribes from Oakes Ames in connection with legislation on the Union Pacific Railroad Company, and he called for the appointment of a special committee of five by the Speaker pro tem. to investigate the whole matter, with power to send for persons and papers. Blaine made a few remarks challenging investigation, and said he had requested Cox to appoint a majority of Democrats on the committee.

The resolution was adopted, with a few negative votes on the Democratic side, and Cox appointed Poland, Banks, Beck, Niblack and McCrary.

Dawes said: Mr. Speaker—Believing that all will concur in the propriety of the public recognition of events so impressive and so without parallel in the history of this Government that have recently transpired, I deem it proper to offer the following resolution:

Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives, That in view of the recent death of Horace Greeley, for whom at the late election more than three million votes were cast for President, that a record be made on the journals of Congress of the appreciation for the eminent services and personal purity and worth of the deceased, and of the sad impression created by his death, following a keen family bereavement.

Cox, of New York, then paid a feeling tribute to the memory and character of Greeley, after which the resolution was unanimously adopted.

Before sleeping in a strange bed, the Chinese burn a piece of paper covered with cabalistic signs. After trying to sleep in an animated Oregon bed, strangers content themselves with mentally burning the landlord.

Wheat in Liverpool—Average, 12s@12s 4d; Club, 13s 6d@13.

The demand for funds to purchase wheat and the charters of vessels having decreased, renders our local money market rather easier, though the general stringency, a complaint which has in a measure become chronic, has not abated. The lack of a full supply of funds is having some effect on improvements, more particularly those of a private nature. The approach of the holidays has induced our merchants to stock up in some lines of goods and orders from the interior are also coming to hand for the same seasonable articles. The scarcity of money has affected trade as little here as elsewhere in the United States, and, on the whole, we have as little cause to murmur as any of our neighbors. The indications are not as fair as at other times in our commercial history; but are still not devoid of encouragement to men of prudence and cleverness.

Ship Building on this coast

It has often been suggested that a fair prospect for a profitable investment in the construction on this coast of vessels to do our own carrying trade to a great extent, lay before our capitalists who were willing to venture in that direction. The plausibility of the arrangement that ship building on this coast will pay has been fully demonstrated within the past year by the movements in the grain and shipping trade. A California exchange in urging this question on the attention of producers and shippers of this coast aptly says, it is no use to complain as long as Eastern or European shipowners enjoy a monopoly of our carrying trade. We must build ships ourselves. We have all the facilities for so doing. We need not recapitulate these facilities; they are well known to almost every citizen. It should also be known that according to rates paid in this port the cost of carrying to England that portion of our wheat crop this year available for exportation will, at an estimate of ten million centals, equal eleven million five hundred thousand dollars. Next year we will with a good season export twenty million centals, and will at the same rate, pay twenty-three millions dollars for its transport. It does not matter in this connection whether the shipper really pays for every cargo the freight prices quoted, the result is the same; the price of wheat is lowered just as if he did, and the State loses the amount. Now the cost of building a good wooden ship of a thousand tons at Puget Sound and placing her at the city front ready to receive cargo, is about sixty thousand dollars. One of twelve hundred tons built nearly two years ago for one of our prominent lumber dealers cost seventy thousand dollars. Such a ship would carry one thousand five hundred tons of wheat, which at the rates of freight prevailing to-day—£6 2s. 6d. per ton—would earn on her first voyage, thirty-seven thousand dollars. If she was freighted at the beginning of the season, or within three months of that time she could load two cargoes for Liverpool—the round trip occupying about nine months—and would have paid the whole cost of building, as well as all expenses, without at all taking into account the freight money earned on the return trip to this city from Liverpool. Even if she only made one trip, counting the freight earned on her outward cargo and that earned on her return trip, she would very nearly have paid the cost of construction. If she only lasted three years she would pay a net profit of from $100,000 to 120,000 to her owners. Next year we shall, if we have anything like our anticipated wheat surplus, require over 6 000 vessels of a thousand tons register each. With these facts staring us in the face, we think that it will argue an unprecedented want of enterprise and sagacity if in two or three years more the harbors of San Francisco and Portland are not filled up with a noble commercial fleet built and owned on this coast

Home Produce Market

WHEAT—In quoting the market to-day we call attention to the unsettled condition in which it has been during almost a week. Advices from San Francisco at first denoted an advance which justified buyers in offering $1 45, which has generally ruled, although we hear of some purchases within a few days past at $1 50. Shippers, to-day, have ordered their agents in the interior not to buy at more than the first named figure, and we can give no assurance that it will settle at $1 50 for any length of time. However, we give the prevailing rates to-day at $1 45@1 50. The latter can only be realized for large lots.

FLOUR—Under a steady market the receipts have aggregated large, and the stock on hand is abundant. Shipments have been considerable of late, and still the production has kept pace with the demand. Our quotations for standard brands extra, $5, is good for to-day Other qualities are dull at the figures last given. The steamer to sail to-morrow cannot carry all offered to-day for San Francisco.

OATS—Advices from San Francisco have tended to render buyers here rather backward, though our last quotations of $1 60@1 62½ are unchanged. It is announced by dealers here that our own market will be well kept up during the harvest year, especially if an occasional demand from abroad should produce any important movement of this cereal out of the State, as the surplus is not extraordinary good.

HAY—Receipts continue fair with a good demand at $15@20 ₩ ton

FEED—The market is well supplied at our quotations, which are for Bran, $16; Chops and Middlings, $25@ 27 50 ₩ ton.

POTATOES—Liberal receipts have produced a lower tone in the market, and we quote choice at $1 2 100 lbs, inferior ranging from 75@90c.

POULTRY—Large lots are on the market, and prices are dull at 23 60@4 for good Chickens, Turkeys and Geese unsalable. Wild game is abundant at reduced rates

APPLES—Of ripe, the receipts are decreasing, and a fair quality commands 75c ₩ box

GIRARD'S SECRET.—Stephen Girard used to say in his old age: "I have always considered advertising liberally and long to be the great medium of success in business, and the remedy to wealth. And I have made it an invariable rule to advertise to-day at times as well as the busiest, long experience having taught me that money thus spent is well laid out, as by continually keeping my business before the public it has secured many sales that I otherwise would have lost."
